

"The opposite of divisiveness isn't unity; it's reciprocity, connection and collaboration." - Nina Simons, Bloneers Co-Founder

The conundrum and challenges of communicating with those outside of our own sphere is sometimes almost not worth the effort.

Communicating with people who might have opposing perspectives from our own, is often so challenging, that we do not even try.

I've been thinking, there must be a way to share common experiences, aside from our acknowledged differences...

So, I'm sending out a challenge!

If you've had an exchange with a person of opposing opinions and the outcome has been surprising and resulted in moving towards a more tolerant stance, I am interested!

Click here to send me your experience! I'd like to learn about it.

In thanks for sharing your experience, I will send you a copy of "Communication Challenges" an etching made in my early years as an artist.
